Bexley Winter Shelter Drop-In Centre at the Sea Cadet Hall in Trinity Place on a Monday and Tuesday from 10am-2pm. This is to help homeless or those at risk of homelessness. A hot shower, cooked breakfast, tea/coffee is provided and support from local services including DWP, Oxleas Mental Health & Thames Reach, as well as lending a friendly ear. The Drop-In is proving very busy and successful in providing accommodation for a lot of clients in a short period of time. This is a need currently of new sleeping bags. If anyone is able to donate a new sleeping bag(s) please contact the church office. Also, donations of men’s shower gel and shampoo are needed (new & unused please). There will be a box in the church porch next weekend for donations – thank you. To find out more about BWS go to <https://www.bexleywintershelter.org.uk/> If you know of or see anyone that is rough sleeping or sofa surfing, please ask them to call Geraldine: 07305 102730 who will be able to help.

Parish Liturgy Meeting on Thursday 5th February at 7.30pm in the small hall (attached to the church). Parishioners are invited to suggest additions or changes that could enhance any aspect of our parish liturgy by completing the leaflet available on the table at the back of the church and posting it through the presbytery letterbox or give to the priest after Mass. Ideas or suggestions from parishioners would be welcomed. The leaflets can also be used to volunteer for specific liturgical roles in our Sunday Masses. At the meeting we will be planning our Lent and Easter events.

A Gift Aid Declaration is required when using the Digital Collection Plate for the first time even if you are registered for Gift Aid at St Stephen’s.

My Dear people

Last week I shared with you a basic structure of the Gospel of Matthew. As we hear today the beginning of the Sermon on the Mount, I like to share with you another structure we find regarding the teachings of Jesus in Matthew.

Jesus has begun his Galilean ministry as we saw last week. Introducing ministry of Jesus, Matthew has prepared us—his readers— for the Sermon on the Mount. Matthew arranges the teachings of Jesus into five major discourses or teachings. First of these is the Sermon on the Mount, the beginning of it we hear today. In chapter 10 Jesus gives instructions to the twelve before sending them on mission. In chapter 13 we have a series of parables which speaks about the nature of the Kingdom of God. The fourth discourse is known as the community discourse, found in chapter 18, speaks about the relationship within the community and how the new church will live in the spirit after Jesus’ departure. The final discourse is known as the eschatological discourse where Jesus speaks about the future. It is also important to notice that at the end of these teachings, Matthew uses an expression, ‘when he had finished these words.’

We may wonder as to why Matthew arranged the teachings of Jesus. There are five scrolls of the Torah. As we hear the five discourses proclaimed during this year, they will echo the five books of the Torah. Matthew is telling the story of Jesus that echoes the great story of the Exodus and strengthens that connection by presenting Jesus as the new Moses—teacher, lawgiver and the one who leads God’s people into the fullness of God’s Kingdom. Jesus is not just another figure within the history of Israel but the one who completes it.

With this structure, Matthew shows us that the teachings of Jesus stand at the heart of the new Kingdom of God he brings about. Just as the Torah shaped and formed Israel, the five sermons shape our identity, our discipleship and our mission.

God Bless and love you all.
Canon Edward

Sunday 1st February - Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time (Year A)

Scripture Insights

When Jesus proclaims whom he considers “blessed,” the strong and the proud are not listed. The rich and powerful are absent. Jesus says the blessed ones are the humble and lowly, the faithful who pursue justice and who take refuge in the Lord (see Zep 3:12). They boast only in the Lord Jesus and his salvation (see 1 Cor 1:31). To them, God promises the kingdom of God, an upside-down kingdom in which the last are first.

The blessed ones imitate God with their merciful acts—feeding the hungry, protecting the resident alien, and raising up those who are bowed down see Ps 146:7-9). To them, God promises his mercy on the day of judgement.

The blessed ones mourn, because they are the oppressed and the captives, the fatherless and widows, the ones in exile longing for home. These blessed are those whom Paul describes as “lowly and despised of the world,” as “those who count for nothing” (1 Cor 1:28). To them, God promises his comfort and consolation, which in the Bible means redemption, it means the eternal day of sabbath rest and joy at the end of earthly strivings, it means the wiping away of all tears (see Rev 21:4).

The blessed ones long for God’s justice. They have pure hearts that single-mindedly seek the things of God and speak only the truth (Zep 3:13). They love God’s law (see Zep 2:3); they secure justice for the oppressed (see Ps 146:7). To them, God promises what their heart most desires: they will be satisfied with God himself; they will be “filled with all the fullness of God” (Eph 3:19)

The blessed ones sow shalom, peace, wherever they go. Because they are meek, they do not return evil for evil or trample the weak. Like Jesus, they are gentle. They reconcile enemies to God and to one another. They are called the children of God because they are like their Father.

Reflections

• Though we would expect that happiness belongs to those who are successful in life, the Beatitudes declare that it is the poor, the marginalised, and the oppressed who are happy.

• This reversal of expectation is characteristic of the kingdom of God, and in announcing the nearness of the kingdom, Jesus identifies the recipients of God’s blessing as those whom the world despises and rejects. It is not because of their poverty that these poor merit God’s kingdom; rather they receive God’s blessing because they are wholly dependent upon God and so open to God’s intervention in this world. That they are now declared “blessed” indicates that the time of salvation has begun. With the coming of Jesus, the future hope of the coming of the kingdom of God upon them; the present is already being transformed.

Prayer Intentions Book: Parishioners are invited to write any prayer intentions in our Parish Prayer Intentions book which is placed on the table at the back of the church. Please take time to read the intentions and include them in your prayers.

This Weekend there will be a second collection for the Catholic Association for Racial Justice to support the work of the Catholic Church to promote racial justice in our schools, parishes and in wider society.

Archbishop John Wilson will celebrate Mass for Racial Justice Sunday at St George’s Cathedral on Sunday 1 February 2026, at the 10am Mass. Racial Justice Sunday is a time for the Church to pray, reflect and take action against racism, while celebrating the diversity of our Archdiocese. Everyone is invited to take part, and those who wish may wear national or cultural dress as a sign of unity and pride. After Mass, all are welcome to gather in Amigo Hall for refreshments — a chance to meet one another, share experiences and continue the conversation about faith and inclusion.

You are warmly encouraged to attend in person, but if you cannot make it you can watch the livestream through the following link: <https://www.youtube.com/live/fdmGwmESSgI>
